Language Utility - Tying to Language

After completing the import of the translations into the language utility for the desired language, it is important to test the changes by adding a user for the application you are translating and listing their primary language as the new language. Upon adding and saving the user, be sure to log in as that user into the translated language to verify.

Where to set the Language for users

If the user is using the Manitou Web Client, legacy (desktop) client, or Supervisor Workstation, the user is managed in the Supervisor Workstation. There, all languages are displayed, and you can set their primary and additional languages there.

If the user is utilizing BoldNet or BoldNet Mobile, the user will be on a contact list within the entity that contains the Web User details.
